To Whom It May Concern

I am extremely happy to recommend Ngoc-Khanh Trinh candidature for the role he applied for at your organization. I know him in the capacity of the instructor at Douglas College where he pursues his Post Degree Diploma in Information and Communication Technology.

Ngoc stupendous performance in the courses Introduction to Programming and System Analysis and Design that I offered is indicative of his abilities to learn. His keen interest in acquiring skills and application of these skills in the projects are quite impressive. He is always committed, industrious and sincere towards work.

His achievements in his academic and professional career speaks highly of the knowledge he has in the respective field. He has held the position of Data Scientist in various companies and has proved his mettle in all the projects undertaken in those organizations.

He is articulate and can express himself very well both in formal contexts and in informal discussions. In few months of acquaintance, I found his ideas to be innovative and creative. This was demonstrated by the work he did on his assignments and projects. He is a person with positive attitude towards life and thoroughly enjoys his work. He is self-learner and an extremely organized individual which sets him apart from his peers. I am confident that he will excel in the projects assigned when selected for the role applied.

I strongly believe his sound knowledge of fundamentals, a truly remarkable ability to apply theory to practical situations and a high motivation to keep abreast with the latest information in his field of study will help him in the field he is pursuing. His behaviour with teachers and reverential attitude towards peers is admirable. With all these achievements under his belt and considering his strong foundation I feel that he will excel in his future endeavours. I strongly recommend his candidature and he would prove his mettle in executing the role and responsibilities of the job.
